AT SURAASA

It's All About You

Our revered teachers work tirelessly for the success of their students. However, when it comes to their own career success, the majority of them are unaware of their growth opportunities.

The Suraasa team spoke with over 80,000 teachers, only to discover that the vast majority of them are unaware of some amazing growth opportunities available in the teaching profession. Moreover, fresh talent and professionals from non-teaching careers who aspire to become educators lack clear answers about how to launch a successful teaching career.

As the nation's leading teacher education organization for many years, we decided to invest our years of research and expertise to support freshers, existing teachers, and career switchers in succeeding in this critical career. Thus, Suraasa's core team set out on a mission to provide motivated and determined individuals with the two key factors that separate high-achieving educators from the rest:

It is as important for a teacher to acquire the right skills—beyond subject knowledge—to excel in their career, as it is for an engineer, designer, artist, or entrepreneur."
